HARRY GOLD

Harry Gold is an inmate of Lewisburg Prison. He has been imprisoned since 1950 for his role in the theft of atom bomb secrets. The sentence imposed on him by the presiding Judge was thirty years.

These absolute facts are not extraordinary unless you consider the United States in which we live in 1963. For despite all the Communist thefts of nuclear, scientific, industrial, military and diplomatic secrets, despite all the extensive policy perversion by direct and indirect Soviet agents here that has made Soviet power the domineering force it is today, despite the mountains of Communist propaganda exuded by thousands of Khrushchev's propagandists, Harry Gold is one of the few persons in jail today for ever working for the Soviet enemy.

When you advert to the circumstances of Gold's conviction, you will discover that it was his voluntary assistance toward the United States government that led to his conviction. Unlike the thousands of successful Soviet agents here in the United States, Gold has been cooperating with the F. B. I., the Congressional Committees and those other agencies interested in blunting Soviet power.

I have visited Harry Gold on several occasions at Lewisburg in connection with my Senate work. He is a brilliant intellectual and he had given, at that time, more information on the Soviet conspiracy in the realm of nuclear and scientific secrets than anyone I know. His testimony before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee in Washington on May 3, 1956 was an illuminating performance that could have done so much for the nation's security.

Meanwhile, leading characters in the Soviet Espionage rings, Dr. Alan Nunn May, Klaus Fuchs and others - all of whom stayed loyal to Soviet power by defying the investigating authorities - are now well placed and seemingly flourishing. The direct and indirect agents who were shown to have brought down Free China are particularly successful today. The hundreds of Communist leaders who were demonstrated by overwhelming evidence to have worked for the destruction of the United States, have had their convictions set aside and are now working for Soviet purposes, seemingly without interference.

The contrast between the treatment we accord the ex-Communist who helps us and the unregenerate Communist who defies those interested in stopping Communism is too lurid not to do damage.

Even Junius Scales' case exemplifies the point. He was the Communist convicted on charges of Communist party membership. He contended he broke with Communism and he may have - but he made the conspicuous point of refusing to cooperate with the committees. I note that at Christmas time he was accorded executive clemency.

This conspicuous contrast is not only working personal injustices. It is working to the detriment of the security of the United States.

When ex-Communists came forward in the late 1940's and early 1950's and gave their testimony on the dimensions of the massive Soviet penetration of our government we learned a great deal and were able to reverse some of our disastrous policies, at least briefly. The contributions of Whittaker Chambers, Elizabeth Bentley, Louis Budenz, Dr. Bella V. Dodd and other courageous and dutiful witnesses gave us an insight into the workings of Soviet chicanery in the United States that proved most wholesome.

Today, you will notice few, if any, ex-Communists are coming forward. Many of those who have tried to break through and tell their story have been treated so shamefully that they no longer try.

The Povl Bang-Jensen case which ended so tragically in November 1959 was the straw in the wind. In late 1956 a cluster of Soviet diplomats, disillusioned by Khrushchev's grinding down the Hungarians, wanted asylum here in the United States. They told Bang-Jensen, their selected intermediary, that their superiors in Moscow controlled the 38th floor, the heart of the Secretariat, of the United Nations, and had successfully infiltrated our foreign intelligence and offered to prove it. For the next seven or eight months the head of our CIA would not even see them!

I can see very distressing security events taking place today. For instance in the middle 1950's a State Department official who was in a particularly sensitive position was called before the Senate Committee. He had been close to one of the more conspicuous Soviet spies in this country and all in all his testimony while not conclusive was so disturbing to State Department officials that he was given a remote post to get him out of the way. The State Department officials concerned with security were against this solution, warning that he would be back at a later time in another sensitive spot. But compromise prevailed.

I have recently noticed that this same official has now come back from this exile and had a key role in the U.N. conquest of Katanga.

Harry Gold became eligible for parole on October 22, 1960. He has been denied parole three times, on the application by his lawyer, John D. Hamilton, the well known Philadelphia attorney. Gold is now a valuable, knowledgeable United States citizen. This is an area where clemency would not only be just but would be a move to break up that double standard that hangs over people in our security agencies.

Dear Bill: Hearst

Your letter of January 31st with the enclosed statement by Robert Morris has been received.

Although I appreciate the confidence in me that prompted your inquiry I must decline to comment. The question is essentially one within the purview of a judicial or legislative function rather than an investigative agency such as the FBI. I trust you will understand my position.

On 8-22-62, LESTER MARX HUETTIG, 5800 Cherokee Circle, Shawnee Mission, Kansas, appeared at the Kansas City Office and was shown 5 photographs of the subject by SA MAURICE F. DANIELS. After viewing these photographs, he said the ones taken in the years 28-30, 42, 41, and 1960 could definitely be dismissed by him as not being similar to the individual he knew as CARL. He said the photograph taken in 1939 was the closest one to his recollection of what CARL would look like, but could neither say it was identical or not identical positively.

HUETTIG stated that he had only met CARL a couple of times, and that when CARL was present, his main conversation was with PETER.

He furnished the following description of CARL, which he said was a hazy recollection at best:

HUETTIG said that he has been living a comparatively quiet life managing property owned by his wife, and his farm in Osceola, Missouri. He said that he has had no contacts whatsoever regarding any individuals connected with either the Communist Party or any Soviet apparatus. He said that he had never been a communist and had no interest whatsoever in Communism. RE: HARRY GOLD

Harry Gold, admitted Soviet agent, was interviewed on November 1, 1950, at which time he identified a photograph of Filipp Sarytchev as a Soviet he had met on several occasions. Gold said that in the latter part of July, 1949, he received a typewritten note on plain paper postmarked "Brooklyn" with the typewritten words appearing on the envelope "St. George Hotel." The note had the handwritten signature "John" and the context indicated to Gold that a representative of the Soviet Union wanted to contact him. Gold went to the appointed place in New York City in late July, 1949; however, no meeting was held.

He continued that on Saturday evening, September 24, 1949, he was visited by Sarytchev and during the conversation Sarytchev asked about his testimony before the Federal Grand Jury in 1947. Instructions were given to Gold for a future meeting in New York City on October 5 or 6, 1949. The meeting was held and Gold's Grand Jury testimony was again discussed and Sarytchev asked if any of his friends in Philadelphia had been questioned about him since that time. He also told Gold he should make plans to leave the country should such an emergency arise. The next meeting was scheduled for October 23, 1949, in New York.

At the meeting of October 23 Gold was told that for the ensuing year or two it was not contemplated that he would be used by the Soviet Union in espionage activities. Sarytchev discussed the method by which Gold could leave this country suggesting entry into Mexico, then to South American and eventually to one of the countries of Europe. The balance of the meeting pertained to arrangements for future meetings and recognition signals. Gold was told to come to New York later the night before the meeting and spend considerable time immediately before the appointed meeting wandering about and not staying very long in one place. He was told to go past the regular meeting place one or two times in advance and if he observed anything of a suspicious nature he was not to make the meeting.

RE: HARRY GOLD

On the first Sunday of December, 1949, Gold went to New York City for a regular meeting with Sarytchev. He stayed twenty minutes and was not contacted. On the first Sunday of February, 1950, Gold went to New York City to effect another regular meeting with a Soviet superior but was not contacted by anyone. He was particularly concerned at this time since Fuchs had been arrested a few days earlier. (U)

With regard to instructions for leaving the United States which were given to David Greenglass, it is noted that he testified at the trial to these instructions which he received from Julius Rosenberg. Greenglass testified that he was contacted by Rosenberg in February, 1950, a few days after the arrest of Klaus Fuchs in England. He testified that Rosenberg took him for a walk in a park and spoke about Fuchs. Greenglass testified that Rosenberg said to him, "You remember the man who came to see you in Albuquerque? Well, Fuchs was also one of his contacts." Greenglass said Rosenberg told him that this man would undoubtedly be arrested and, if so, it would lead to Greenglass. Rosenberg told him that he would have to leave the country. Greenglass stated that he told Rosenberg he would need money to pay his debts and Rosenberg said it was not necessary to worry about it. Greenglass said that Rosenberg told him he would get the money from the Russians. (U)

Greenglass also stated that sometime around May 22 or 23, 1950, Rosenberg came to his apartment with a copy of a newspaper which had a picture of Harry Gold in it and he told Greenglass that this is the man who came to see him (Greenglass) in Albuquerque. Rosenberg told him that he (Greenglass) would have to leave the country and he gave Greenglass $1,000. Greenglass testified to the escape route given to him by Rosenberg. (U)

In addition to the above testimony, Greenglass was interviewed on June 30 and July 2, 1951, at which time he said that during the Christmas holiday period of 1949 he had a discussion with Rosenberg concerning the machine shop business in which both owned shares of stock. Rosenberg told him that he did not want to alarm him but "You will have to begin thinking about going away to Paris" and told Greenglass that he, Greenglass, was "hot." (U)

Rosenberg told him that he and his wife should obtain American passports with visas for France by applying at the Department of State and the French Consulate, both in New York City. Greenglass was to state that he owned property (U)

in France and wanted to dispose of it. He was told money would be provided for the trip and in Paris he would make contact with someone in the espionage ring. (U)

Greenglass asked Rosenberg why he had to leave the country and Rosenberg said "Something is happening which will cause you to leave the United States." Rosenberg told Greenglass not to worry but to sign over his stock certificate, have it notarized and give it to him. (U)

Greenglass also advised that he remembered feeling uneasy at a New Year's Eve party on December 31, 1949, thinking about what Rosenberg had told him and feeling this would probably be the last New Year's Eve he would spend with his friends. (U)

Reference is made to the telephone call of Mr. John Davitt of your Division on March 8, 1966, in which he asked to be advised if Harry Gold had cooperated with the Bureau since his imprisonment and if there is any objection to recommending him for executive clemency.

Harry Gold cooperated with this Bureau before and during his incarceration. In addition, he appeared as a Government witness in several official judicial proceedings involving persons who were known to him to have been engaged in Soviet espionage during the 1940s. In addition to the above, Gold made a public appearance in April, 1956, before the Committee on the Judiciary, United States Senate. In view of the above, this Bureau interposes no objection to a decision to solicit executive clemency for Harry Gold.

SUBJECT: HARRY GOLD
ESPIONAGE - RUSSIA

The Department is presently considering recommending executive clemency and has solicited the Bureau's comments concerning this action.

On March 8, 1966, Mr. John Davitt of the Internal Security Division of the Department called at the request of Assistant Attorney General Yeagley. According to Davitt, the Department is reconsidering the case of Harry Gold and, specifically, they are considering the desirability of recommending to the President the granting of executive clemency for Gold. If the President acted favorably, the thirty-year sentence originally meted out to Gold would be reduced to twenty years, and he would be immediately eligible for parole.

Davitt noted that he was of the belief that the Bureau, as a matter of practice, would not make a recommendation for the granting or withholding of executive clemency. He therefore asked to be advised if Gold had cooperated with the Bureau since his imprisonment and/or whether we had any strong objection to executive clemency. Davitt did not know what was behind the present considerations, although he did note that about a year ago the Board of Parole had solicited the Department for its opinion on the eligibility of Gold for parole. According to Davitt, the Department at that time had responded that they would have no objection to granting parole to Harry Gold.

Harry Gold was originally taken into custody by Bureau Agents on May 22, 1950, after he had confessed to acting as a courier between Klaus Fuchs in Los Alamos and Anatoli Yakovlev, Soviet Vice Consul in New York. He was indicted and subsequently pled guilty to a charge of espionage and received a thirty-year sentence on December 9, 1950.

After the initial confession of Harry Gold, he was cooperative in identifying for the Bureau others who had been active in Soviet espionage during the 1940s. He appeared as a witness for the Government in the trials of Abraham Brothman and Miriam Moskowitz and in the Rosenberg trial. Since his incarceration, Gold has cooperated with the Bureau during interviews and has also appeared before Congressional committees.

Re: HARRY GOLD

OBSERVATIONS:

While the communists in the United States have organized the Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell and have officially sought his pardon and release with considerable publicity, there has never been any effort to secure the release of Harry Gold who cooperated with the United States Government.

ACTION:

If you agree, there is attached a letter to Assistant Attorney General Yeagley advising him that Harry Gold cooperated with this Bureau before and during his incarceration and, further, that Gold has appeared as a Government witness in official judicial proceedings involving those who were known to him to be engaged in Soviet espionage. Under these circumstances, this Bureau has no objection to soliciting executive clemency for Gold.

b7D

Greenglass has completed a fifteen-year sentence at the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pennsylvania. At one time he was a member of the Young Communist League and the International Workers Order. While in the U. S. Army, he served as a machinist at Los Alamos, New Mexico, from 1944-1946. He was recruited into the Soviet espionage system by his brother-in-law and sister, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, and in 1945 he furnished to Harry Gold, admitted Soviet agent, sketches relating to atomic research. He testified as a Government witness in the Rosenberg trial. Although the scope of his knowledge of Soviet intelligence personnel and their activity is limited, Greenglass is cooperative and has furnished information on other associates of Rosenberg, who allegedly were recruited by him into Soviet espionage operations.

AUSA STEPHEN F. WILLIAMS, SDNY, has advised that attorneys for subject, on 6/10/68, filed in USDC, SDNY, an Order to Show Cause requesting that under Section 2255, Title 28, USC, the government should show cause why subject should not be granted an evidentiary hearing, released on bail to be present at the hearing, and be furnished with the pre-trial statements of HARRY GOLD, DAVID and RUTH GREENGLASS, and the confession of KAUS FUCHS.

In accompanying petition, requesting that a Show Cause Order be issued, subject's attorneys cite a recent decision of the US Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, in the case US vs KEOGH, decided 2/2/68, and submitted to the Supreme Court, in which KEOGH was granted an evidentiary hearing because of suppressed evidence.

Subject's attorneys state that the material suppressed in subject's case had use beyond that of mere "forensic endeavors", because it related to the testimony of key prosecution witnesses and the issue of their credibility (GREENGLASS, GOLD and DERRY).

A copy of the above Order to Show Cause, together with the Petition of subject's attorneys, and an affidavit of HELEN SOBELL, is enclosed herewith for the information of the Bureau.

A review of this file indicates newspaper articles show that Harry Gold received parole from prison in April, 1966, after serving more than one half his sentence. The records of the Identification Division show there is a security flash against the fingerprints of Harry Gold which will expire in 1970. This indicates the possibility that Gold's sentence was reduced to 20 years, making him eligible for conditional release rather than parole.

You should check with the US Probation Department in Philadelphia and determine the facts concerning Gold's release from prison.

Reference is made to memoranda captioned, "Freedom of Information Act Request - Alvin H. Goldstein," to the Assistant Attorney General, Office of Legal Counsel, dated December 7, 1973, and to the Acting Attorney General, dated December 14, 1973, and a memorandum to the Attorney General captioned, "Attorney General Order 528-73," dated January 30, 1974. By letter dated December 26, 1973, Mr. Bork sustained our denial of access to Alvin Goldstein of interviews of David and Ruth Greenglass concerning the Rosenberg case. You may be interested in the following developments with regard to individuals involved in the Rosenberg trial.

As the Department was previously informed in referenced memoranda, the Greenglasses have indicated to our New York Office their great anxiety that Alvin Goldstein may reveal their present identity and location in his television program to be aired on the evening of February 25th. They have recently recontacted our New York Office and advised they contemplate moving to a motel during the evening of the 25th and for the following few days, to preclude the possibility of being subjected to harassment if their identity or location is disclosed.

Mr. Goldstein has also just revealed to the national press that last summer he discovered Harry Gold had died in 1972. Joseph Gold, Harry Gold's only surviving family member, refused to see Mr. Goldstein to explain the secrecy surrounding the death. However, Augustus S. Ballard, Mr. Gold's lawyer and confidant, in an interview with the "New York Times," explained the secrecy saying, "The poor bastard was hounded all his life, and his brother was sick of it." Enclosed is a copy of a "New York Times" article concerning Harry Gold.

We bring the above facts to your attention to illustrate the torment individuals who are connected with this case are experiencing and the lengths they will go to protect their

1972 Death

By ALDEN WHITMAN

Harry Gold, who served 15 years in Federal prison as a confessed atomic spy courier for Klaus Fuchs, a Soviet agent, and who was a key Government witness in the Julius and Ethel Rosenberg espionage case in 1951, died 18 months ago in Philadelphia without any public announcement, The New York Times has learned.

Mr. Gold's death occurred Aug. 28, 1972, in the John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital in Philadelphia. He was 60 years old. Mr. Gold, according to his death certificate, died during a heart operation. He had worked in the hospital as a clinical chemist for Dr. Ioulios Iossifides, the chief pathologist.

The fact of Mr. Gold's death was turned up by accident last August by Alvin H. Goldstein, a writer-producer for the National Public Affairs Center for TV in Washington. He was then preparing a television documentary on the Rosenbergs, who were executed in 1953 for passing atomic secrets to the Soviet Union.

Mr. Goldstein confirmed yesterday that, after conducting a routine obituary search, he had placed an advertisement in The Times in early July, 1973, requesting anyone who knew Mr. Gold's whereabouts to get in touch with him. A week later, Mr. Goldstein recounted, he received a phone call from a woman who refused to identify herself, but who volunteered that Mr. Gold had died in Philadelphia the previous August.

Cemetery Visited

Mr. Goldstein said that he then obtained a copy of the death certificate and of Mr. Gold's will, which was dated Aug. 24, 1972. He visited the cemetery and subsequently attempted to ask Joseph Gold, Harry Gold's only surviving family member, for an explanation of the secrecy surrounding the death. Mr. Gold, according to Mr. Goldstein, refused to see

Associated Press

Harry Gold

Mr. Goldstein said that he kept his information to himself because he had wanted to disclose it coincident with the release of his since completed 90-minute documentary, "The Unquiet Death of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg." This is now scheduled to be made available to 241 public television outlets on Feb. 25. These include Channel 13 here.

Dr. Iossifides of the Kennedy Memorial Hospital said yesterday by telephone that Mr. Gold had suffered from a heart condition for several years. He added that he had "no idea" why the death had not been announced.

Augustus S. Ballard, Mr. Gold's lawyer and confidant, also confirmed the death. Interviewed by telephone yesterday, Mr. Ballard said in explanation of the secrecy surrounding it, "The poor bastard was hounded all his life, and his brother was sick of it."

Mr. Ballard said that there had been "no deliberate attempt" to hush up the death. He said that a death certificate had been filed and a will probated, "but nobody picked them up."

Shortly after his death, Harry Gold, a bachelor was buried in Har Nabo Cemetery by his brother, and a tombstone was erected that reads

"Harry Gold, Dec. 11, 1911—Aug. 28, 1972." A few close friends and members of the family attended the funeral.

Harry Gold, a once obscure Swiss-born research chemist, rocketed to prominence in May, 1950, when he was arrested in Philadelphia by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He was accused of violation of the Federal Espionage Act in serving as courier for Dr. Fuchs, a British physicist, and Soviet officials in the transmission of American atomic-energy secrets.

In his initial confession, Mr. Gold, then 39, asserted that he had been a member of the Communist party since 1935 and had been recruited for espionage by two Soviet officials, later identified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as Semen M. Semenov of the Amtorg Trading Corporation and Anatoli A. Yakovlev, Soviet vice consul in New York.

After several successful missions, according to the confession, Mr. Gold was assigned in 1945 to get in touch with Dr. Fuchs, then at the United States atomic weapons laboratory in Los Alamos, N.M. The German-born physicist was then working on the super-secret atomic bomb project.

Fuchs in East Germany

Dr. Fuchs, Mr. Gold said, gave him atomic secrets for transmission to his Soviet contacts. In 1950, Dr. Fuchs was arrested in London, confessed to having passed atomic secrets to the Soviet Union and was sentenced to 14 years in prison. He did not then implicate Mr. Gold. Dr. Fuchs was released from jail in 1959 and went to East Germany, where, at his report, he was associated with that country's Nuclear Institute.

Upon his confession Mr. Gold was sentenced to 30 years in jail. He was paroled in May, 1966, having served most of his time in the Federal Penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa.

ENCLOSURE

65-57449-

Mr. Gold was the star witness at the Rosenberg trial here in 1951. He testified in United States District Court that one of his informants at the Los Alamos Laboratory in 1945 was David Greenglass, a technical sergeant on duty there. Mr. Greenglass had allegedly been recruited for a spy ring by his brother-in-law, Julius Rosenberg.

Early in 1945, according to F.B.I. testimony, Mr. Rosenberg and Mr. Greenglass met in New York while the soldier was on furlough. Mr. Rosenberg, the testimony asserted, tore a Jell-boxtop in half, giving one part to Mr. Greenglass. The other part, Mr. Gold swore, was given him by Mr. Yakoilev as having come from Mr. Rosenberg. He had had no direct dealings with Mr. Rosenberg, Mr. Gold asserted.

Boxtop Is Passport

The torn boxtop was the passport Mr. Gold and Mr. Greenglass used to identify each other when they met in Albuquerque, N.M., in June, 1945. "I come from Julius," Mr. Gold testified he had said. Mr. Gold also testified that Mr. Greenglass had supplied him with information about a highly classified lens mold and other secret projects. Mr. Gold said that he had called himself "Dave from Pittsburgh" in his conversation with Mr. Greenglass.

Mr. Gold's dramatic testimony was generally credited with persuading the jury to return a guilty verdict against Mr. and Mrs. Rosenberg. They protested then and later their complete innocence, and they specifically denied the boxtop episode.

A number of efforts have been made over the years to discredit both Mr. Gold's confession and his testimony. Marshall Perlin, a lawyer here who is counsel to the Rosenberg children, Michael and Robert, said yesterday that he had interviewed Dr. Fuchs in his British jail in 1959:

According to Mr. Perlin, Dr. Fuchs said, "I never identified Gold. Gold insisted he was the courier, and I finally said [to the F.B.I.], 'If he wants to be the guy, let him be the guy.'" The F.B.I., on the other hand, has always insisted that Dr. Fuchs positively identified Mr. Gold after having viewed motion pictures of him.

Forgery Charged

In 1966, lawyers for Morton Sobell who were seeking to overturn his 30-year sentence for espionage conspiracy with the Rosenbergs, charged that the F.B.I. had forged a 1945 hotel-reservation card at the Albuquerque Hilton. The card purported to show that Mr. Gold had indeed met Mr. Greenglass in that New Mexico city.

It was the Government's only documentary evidence to show that Mr. Gold was in Albuquerque at the time he said he received secrets from Mr. Greenglass. The forgery charges were based on assertions in "Invitation to an Inquest," a book on the Rosenberg case written in 1965 by Walter and Miriam Schnier.

Mr. Sobell's plea was denied, but he was released from jail in June, 1969. Mr. Greenglass, who was sentenced to 15 years on conspiracy charges in the Rosenberg case, was released from jail in 1960. His present whereabouts could not be determined yesterday.

Mr. Gold, according to Mr. Ballard, always insisted that his testimony was truthful. He was upset, the lawyer said, by attempts to impeach his credibility.

After his release from Lewisburg, Mr. Gold worked quietly at the Kennedy Memorial Hospital. He was attached to the hospital's School of Certified Laboratory Assistants, to which he bequeathed a share of his estate. Other parts went to his brother, to the Philadelphia Orchestra, to the Temple University Music Festival and to Mr. Ballard.

Director Clarence M. Kelley
Federal Bureau of Investigation
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Kelley:

I hereby formally request that the Bureau furnish me materials related to the case of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. This would include papers relating to the Rosenbergs, to David and Ruth Greenglass, to Max Elitcher, Harry Gold, Klaus Fuchs, and Anatoli A. Yakovlev. In addition, I am requesting papers relating to Abraham Brothman and Oscar Vago; these would, I believe, provide background information and may relate directly to the Rosenberg Case.

I am presently engaged in a historical and sociological study of the Rosenberg Case, and of the social and legal climate within which it took place. I am an associate professor of Sociology at Douglass College, Rutgers University, presently on a one year leave for the purpose of pursuing this research effort. I expect my work to result in the publication of scientific papers for sociological journals and a book.

I have already requested and received cooperation from the Eisenhower Library, Department of Justice, and the State Department. I look forward to receiving the cooperation of your department.

Sincerely yours,

Emily Alman

PERSONAL & CONFIDENTIAL
BY SPECIAL MESSENGER

Honorable Gordon E. Dean
Chairman
Atomic Energy Commission
19th and Constitution Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C.

My dear Mr. Dean:

For the completion of your records, this is to notify you officially of the outcome of the prosecution of Harry Gold. After hearing on sentence on December 7, 1950, he was sentenced on December 9, 1950, by United States District Judge James P. McGranery, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, to 30 years imprisonment for conspiracy to violate Subsection (a), Section 32, Title 50, United States Code, in violation of Section 34, Title 50, United States Code (1946 Ed.).

On December 14, 1950, Judge McGranery amended Gold's sentence to 29 years and 223 days so as to credit Gold for the 142 days imprisonment between the date he entered his guilty plea, July 20, 1950, and the date of sentence.

Sincerely yours,

J. Edgar Hoover
